

Ogden Mills the Man Back of Hoover in New Political Activity

WASHINGTON — Congressional leaders believe they have cleared up the mystery as to who is behind Herbert Hoover's revived political activity.

Knowing the former President as they do, they were satisfied he would not have re-entered the political arena on his own volition.

Someone, they were convinced, was prompting him.

The identity of this behind-the-scenes mastermind has now been established to their complete satisfaction.

He is Ogden L. Mills, multi-millionaire Secretary of the Treasury in Hoover's cabinet and most powerful Republican figure in 1931-32.

Shirley Temple Victim

Square-jawed Minister Bordenave of Paraguay has been in the United States for some years, has come to look upon it as his second home. So also have his two children aged 5 and 7. But there is one thing he doesn't like about this country.

"I have become a victim," he says, "of Shirley Temple. I have to take my children to see all her pictures. I have to buy dresses, pajamas, hats all modelled after Shirley Temple."

"I even bought a book on Shirley Temple, and had to discourse and comment and explain about it."

"I am glad we have no Shirley Temples in Paraguay."

NOTE—The Ambassador of Argentina, universally known as the best informed diplomat on the agriculture, industry, commerce and politics of the United States, does not know who Shirley Temple is.

Adjournment Date

Congressional leaders are saying privately that they will be lucky if Congress adjourns by July 15. There is good reason for pessimism. Not for years, has a session been so slow-moving in getting under way.

Despite the fact that the legislative wheels have been grinding for three months, only one major measure—the work-relief bill—has come out of the hopper.

The others, even more controversial, are piled up in varying degrees of incompleteness. The list of these projects and their status is enough to give even the stoutest-hearted floor leader the willies.

Social security program, now awaiting disposal by the House has not even been considered by a Senate committee. It is sure to consume weeks of bitter warring when it finally reaches the Senate.

NRA continuance still is under consideration by the Senate Finance committee and will be for several more weeks. It is certain of prolonged consideration on the Senate floor.

The holding corporation bill under heavy fire in committees by utility foes. A month for floor action on this measure is a conservative estimate.

Wagner labor disputes bill is making slow progress in committee and is certain to do the same on the floor.

In addition to this top-heavy array of "must" legislation, there are a number of other important measures—ship subsidies, food

DEAL CHARGED IN PAROCHIAL SCHOOL VOTE

Senate Splits Wide Open
as Seidner Changes
Ballot to Support Aid

DAVEY MENTIONED

Solons Say Democrat Offered Ohio Job

COLUMBUS, April 5—Safely across its first hurdle the Davis parochial school aid bill today split the state senate wide open.

Sen. J. Ralph Seidner (D) of Youngstown, who broke the three weeks deadlock in the senate finance committee by voting to recommend the measure, that would provide $3,000,000 state aid to church schools and $2,000,000 state funds to colleges with teacher training courses, bore the brunt of opposition charges of a "deal" engineered by Gov. Martin L. Davey.

Jobs Promised?
Sen. R. A. Pollock, (R) of Canton, who claimed Seidner had indicated he would oppose the parochial aid bill, said "reliable rumors have disclosed Gov. Davey promised Seidner and his son state jobs if he would vote for the bill."

Seidner's vote on the bill came as a surprise move of administration leaders in the senate. Sen. W. H. Herner (D) of Monroeville called the finance committee together hurriedly following the legislative session last yesterday for the third time in a week to seek action on the measure that bids fair to stir the most bitter controversy of the 91st general assembly.

Seidner was silent while the 12 other committee members debated. He then moved to report out the measure, explaining: "I would prefer this bill be reported out of this committee than to have the entire financing of the public schools wrecked."

"This vote will permit the rules committee of the senate to arrange the bill in a proper program and, in my opinion, will save a breakdown in the public school plans."

Sen. James M. Matthews, Jr. (D) of Clark-co voted against the measure.

PHYSICIAN IS HELD HUNT GIRL'S BODY

LANCASTER, Pa., April 5—Spurred by information that the woman died after an illegal operation, police today began an intensive search of the ramshackle home of Dr. H. E. Zimmerly, 67, for the body of Mrs. Gladys Lawson, 26, of Calvert, Md., who disappeared last March 13 after leaving to visit the eccentric physician.

First definite information that Mrs. Lawson had died came from Blanche Stone, 22, of Marion, Va., a nurse who attended at the operation, during questioning by police.

Babs' Heart Interest?

CIVIC GROUPS BEGIN ACTION

Wire Officials Urging That Post Office Be Properly
Completed

Several civic clubs had sent requests today to Senators Vic Donahay and Robert J. Bulkley and to Congressman Mel C. Underwood urging that they use their power to see that the federal post office project is properly completed.

The clubs held committee meetings Thursday afternoon and evening and instructed proper officials to notify the senators and congressman that second-hand furniture was to be installed, if possible, in the new building, that curbing is needed around the building, that a shower bath should be placed in the basement, that the sidewalk in front should be replaced and that water running unimpeded off the roof will make a dangerous situation in the rear of the building.

It is asked that all these be corrected in addition to a uniform grade about the building so proper landscaping can be done.

Organizations which have already met and recommended action are the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary club and B. P. O. Elks club. Others expected to take action are the Democratic executive committee, Kiwanis club and American Legion.

The contractors doing the job, the Garland Co., Chicago, will be ready to leave here about April 15, they have informed Postmaster Hulse Hays.

SALESMAN FEARS COLLEGIANS' IRE

ATHENS, April 5—Fearing possible retaliation because he reported to police that he had been tarred and feathered by a group of Ohio University students, Harley Thompson, 55, salesman, today went into hiding here.

Authorities declared that they knew Thompson's whereabouts but that the man had left his regular rooming house because he feared a possible attack.

Thompson Tuesday night, according to his own story, was taken to a cemetery at Clarks Chapel, near here, and tarred and feathered.

He identified Robert Moore, president of a university fraternity, as one of his alleged assailants and Moore was arrested and released under bond. The student refused to reveal the names of the other persons involved.

LAUREL AND HARDY TO REMAIN AS TEAM

HOLLYWOOD, April 5—"We're pals."

That was the way Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy, one of the screen's best known comedy teams, announced they would mend the break which split the pair recently.

At the Hal Roach studio Laurel signed a new contract, which means he will again be co-starred with Hardy in the type of comedy which has made the pair famous.

Laurel's former contract was terminated in March when he failed to approve of the type of stories submitted by Hal Roach, studio head for use by the team.

MAN CHARGED WITH SLAYING SIX BOYS

SCHWERIN, Mecklenburg-SCHWERIN, Germany, April 5—Suspected of murdering six boys within two weeks, Adolf Seefeldt, 65, was arrested here today in a German parallel to New York's Fish case.

The lads, between 9 and 14 years old, disappeared from their homes, and were later found dead in isolated countryside spots.

Police said some had been poisoned and other strangled. Seefeldt denied committing the crimes.

ATHENS SEEKS OFFER OF GAS PIPELINE FIRM

Would Join Circleville, Chillicothe Others; To Start
In Few Days

With the Universal Pipeline Co. pledged to start laying its gas line toward this city within the next 10 days, word has come that another southern Ohio city now served by the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. is willing to discuss a proposition with the company.

Council at Athens has extended an invitation to the Universal company by unanimous vote to present its gas service proposition. A representative of the company has stated that gas would be piped to the corporation line for 30 cents a 1,000 cubic feet, or delivered to the consumer for 37 cents in the Athens-co city.

Now Paying 61 Cents
Athens is now paying 61 cents for gas piped and distributed by Ohio Fuel.

In a letter to council two weeks ago W. H. Phipps, president of Universal, said his company would start construction of its pipelines about April 10.

Other cities which have given the Universal company a contract to furnish gas besides Circleville are Chillicothe, Jackson and Portsmouth.

When he learned recently that the Ohio Fuel Co. had offered a new contract to Chillicothe, Phipps immediately wrote urging the council there not to accept the contract pending action by his firm. A similar letter was received here although the Ohio Fuel has not yet offered Circleville a new rate.

NURSES BRING DAMAGE SUITS

Misses Steele and Kirchofer
Sue Rio Grande Man for $5,000 and $2,000

Misses Helen Steele and Ethel Kirchofer, nurse and superintendent, respectively, at Berger hospital, had damage suits on file in common pleas court Friday against Maurice Fowler, of Rio Grande, O., for $5,000 and $2,000.

The actions, in which Weldon and Weldon represent the plaintiffs, are the result of an automobile wreck on the Scioto trail, north of this city, April 5, 1931, in which both hospital employees were painfully hurt.

The petitions charge their car was parked when Fowler drove recklessly against their machine.

Fowler, a resident of Rio Grande works for a motor company in Gallipolis.

Fit Education to Life's Needs, Educator Urges

Make education dynamic, fit it to life needs, and pay more attention to the foreground than the background, was the plea of John Wayne Richards, headmaster at Lake Forest academy, Lake Forest, Ill., in his talk before the Circleville Rotarians at their weekly luncheon meeting Thursday at the New American hotel.

The final end of education is to bring about the permanent satisfaction and happiness of mankind, he declared. "Too much of our education has been like the mid-Victorian haircloth furniture which was locked up in the parlor to be used only on special occasions. Most of the current methods used in the education of youth are too formal, too abstract and too disconnected from life."

LAWYER SAYS BRUNO LOSING 'IRON NERVES'

Going to Pieces in Death
House, Claims Reilly,
Now Out of Case

ATTORNEY 'FIRED'

Not to do Another Thing,
Says Counsel

NEW YORK, April 5 — Bruno Richard Hauptmanns famed "iron nerves" are going to pieces in the death house of the New Jersey state prison, Edward J. Reilly revealed today.

Reilly, who was dismissed by Mrs. Hauptmann as chief defense counsel for the convicted slayer of the Lindbergh baby yesterday, said Hauptmann was "like a shadow" when he talked to him for the last time a week ago.

"He has watched four men go through that little green door to the electric chair since he entered the prison," Reilly said, "and it has had a terrible effect on him."

Bruno Like Shadow

"He was like a shadow when I talked to him. He was more silent than ever. He said nothing while I was there except to mutter his consent to have the record printed for the appeal. His voice was strained and he clutched the bars of his cell."

Reilly said Hauptmann's appearance was far different from what it was the first time he saw him last November. It was an alert, confident, almost defiant Hauptmann then and his very first words after the introduction to Reilly, were:

"Mr. Reilly, I am as innocent of this crime as you are. I am a father myself."

Reilly said he still thinks Hauptmann is innocent of the kidnapping and that he could be saved. But he said he would not lift a finger to aid him now.

Defense Snarled
"From now on Hauptmann is Mr. X to me," Reilly said. "I do not intend to turn over a single page of the work I have done on the appeal to Hauptmann. I took this case as a business proposition and I do not mix business with other things."

The lawyer's stand may snarl Hauptmanns defense badly.

'Jesse James' Style; Escape Into Chicago

CHICAGO, April 5—Four armed bandits made good their escape from pursuing possmen today after robbing and terrorizing with gun-play two score passengers aboard the Louisiana, crack New Orleans limited of the Illinois Central railroad, as it sped south last night.

One passenger George Kerr, was shot in the groin when he failed to obey immediately the command of the ruddy-faced unmasked bandit leader.

All of the "Home Rule" measures sponsored by the governor's committee on county government, Charles P. Taft, Cincinnati, chairman, have been reported out of committee and are on the legislative calendar.

WATERLOO, ATHLETIC CLUB CONTEST TO START AT 8

DOORS OF GYM TO OPEN AT 6

Hairston to Bring Twice-State Championship Team Here For Benefit Game

Circleville and Pickaway co became basketball-minded today the Waterloo Wonders coming here to meet the Athletic club five at 8 o'clock this evening.

Doors of the CAC gymnasium will be opened at 6 o'clock with a preliminary scheduled at 6:30.

Tickets are on sale for 25 and 50 cents, the former price to children under 15 years of age.

The game, which is expected to be one of the best seen on the local court in many years, is being played for the benefit of Arthur Steele and George Vreborome. After Waterloo is given its percentage of the game receipts and expenses have been deducted, the proceeds will be split equally between the two popular athletes.

Telegram Received

The following telegram was received today from Magellan Hairston, coach of the championship Waterloo team:

"Will Arrive at 7 o'clock."

M. Hairston.

The CAC gymnasium has been cleaned up, bleachers, chairs and benches have been placed and Custodian Tom Drum was busy scrubbing the entire playing floor.

It is expected the gymnasium will be filled for the big game. Announcement of the contest has been received with enthusiasm all over the county and many sports followers and others who have read of the great Waterloo team will be on hand to see the team which has created more interest in basketball in the past two years than any other school has in 15 seasons.

The Waterloo boys do everything with perfection. They pass, shoot and guard like collegians and the tricks they can do with the basketball cannot be described.

Four of the Wonders who have won the state class B championship for two years will be in the lineup tonight. They are the two Roberts boys, McMahon and Wiseman. The former three are the nucleus of the team. They simply do everything while the latter is a good defensive ball player. Beryl Drummond, another sharpshooter, will not be in the lineup since he has another year of competition.

Coach Hairston has not announced who his successor will be.

Club Team Strong

The Athletic club team has been augmented for the contest with three of the regulars and two additional players being used. The regulars are Carl Purcell, forward; Joe Barnes, center; and Eve Merriman, guard. Jim Scoles, of Ashville, will be at the other forward with Shadel Saunders, of New Holland, at the other guard. Saunders' exhibition on the defense will match that of any athlete in central Ohio.

Others Coach Judy Gordon will probably use are Bill Hegele, Boyce Parks and Byron Eby.

The club team had a lengthy practice session Thursday evening in preparation for the contest. Saunders was unable to be on hand but he is in splendid playing condition and will fit very nicely into the team picture. He is the kind of ball player who can adapt himself to any system.

Ivan Davis who coached athletics when Steele and Vreborome were in school, will handle the whistle for the big game while Johnny Heiskell, popular county arbiter, will officiate the preliminary which finds Commercial Point and Pickaway-twz tangling at 6:30 sharp.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

Wanted it? Got it

The flowers of this column go to Chillicothe's sports fans. They decided they needed a new athletic field so got busy and today it is a reality—There are many things you can do if you try * * *

White Holds Record

DID YOU KNOW?—Howard White, this city, has been high scorer in the Buckeye conference meet for two consecutive years. He holds the individual scoring record with 18 points tallied in the 1933 meet—An injury suffered in a tri-state meet in Morgantown, W. Va., may impair his chances for the third year and what might be a permanent record * * * That George Baubler, Ohio Wesleyan mentor, has been head of the athletic department for 14 years; he is football and track coach * * * The basketball team coached by Ray Detrick has lost but nine games in the last three years, winning 45 contests—Only two were lost in the season just passed * * *

Wilson to Return?

The infield remains a problem for the Columbus Red Birds—Eddie Delker is the only veteran there and he has been coming slowly through the spring drills—Pat Ankenman, mite infielder, seems almost certain to take over the shortstop duties, while Hassett, left-handed leaver by Newark, will hold down first base—Since Charlie Wilson has come into the bad graces of the Cardinals he may come Columbusward—It is probable Charlie would go to third base leaving Delker, who now wears glasses, on second * * *

Millers Get Help

Watch out for Minneapolis in the AA this year again—Cleveland has sent Lefty Bill Perrin and Steven Sundra to the Miller town in part payment for Outfielder Ab Wright—'Tis reported in the Sporting News that the real reason Pat Malone was waived out of the league by the Cardinals was because he was getting too chummy with Diz Dean—Malone's contract with the St. Louis club has a base of $7,500 with an additional $1,500 if he kept his whistle dry, it is said * * *

Quarantine to Hamper Ohio University Teams

ATHENS, April 5—Ohio university's baseball and track hopes went crashing to new lows today after the Men's Union on the campus, where more than a dozen Bobcat athletes reside, was quarantined for scarlet fever.

Dr. Blain Goldsberry, the school's physician, ordered the red card nailed on the door of the club after one of the students there contracted the disease. The quarantine, it was explained, was a precautionary measure.

Held indoors by the ban were more than a dozen members of the baseball, track and tennis teams. Included among them was Bill Schmidt of Columbus, a pitcher on the nine, who had been nominated to start Ohio U's opening game with Ohio State here tomorrow.

Woody Wills of Columbus, football star and the catcher on the baseball team, also was caught by the quarantine. Others enjoying the enforced vacation included Eldon Armbrust of Washington, C. H. George May of Ashtabula, Harlan Nelson of Delaware, Walt Harvey, Bill Reeves and Bob Snyder, all of Toledo, Pete Stephan of Sidney and Pearl Ruchley of New Lexington.

Nelson is a track and football man and all of the others also were letterman in various sports.

The mice have been trained to sit at a doll's table on two tiny chairs and drink milk out of miniature cups. The little girl is very proud of her pets.

FINGER LENGTH NOT IMPORTANT

ALEX MORRISON says: Hands and individuality are considered synonymous. The generally accepted idea that all finger prints are different helps to build up this belief.

Every golfer figures that he should use a different grip. His hands are shaped differently. His fingers are too long or too short for such and such a hold.

The fact of the matter is simply this—if you hold the club properly, the size, shape or strength of your hands doesn't count so much. Certainly the length of your fingers isn't so important when you grasp the shaft firmly with the left little fingers so that the club is pressed into the palm of the left hand.

Then hold firmly, with just the thumb and forefinger of the right hand.

PICARD LEADS STAR GOLFERS WITH SUB-PAR

Paces Sarazen, Goggin Others After First 18 With Brilliant 67

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 5—Youth thumbs its nose at tradition, blazing its own new trail, a grin on its face, nothing to lose and everything to gain.

In point, take the case of a young fellow named Robert Tyre Jones. He taught the world how to play golf, and at 28 his feats enthroned him as emperor, then he became just as successful a corporation lawyer and golf became simply a game, like a hand of bridge which you play with friends who drop in for the evening.

Today some of Bobby's pupils were proving him a good teacher, cutting their own trails, and flaunting tradition with high disregard by giving the unbeatable Augusta national course, designed to test the calibre of champions, a mortifying and resounding lacing.

Just about the brightest pupil, for the moment at least, is young Henry Picard, the hottest article in this winter's tournament wolf.

Picard, the chocolate soldier from Hershey, Pa., who until this year hailed from Charleston, S. C., changed his set of golf clubs for sticks of dynamite and blasted up the Augusta national Thursday.

Virtually unnoticed while the gallery followed the glamorous Jones, as they probably will be for years to come, and Gene Sarazen, the top favorite, Picard streaked over the route Thursday in just 67 sizzling strokes to clip five strokes off par.

He collected six birdies along the route.

Henry showed his heels to the pack after Sarazen blazed the way early in the day with a 68, amazing enough in itself when many a crack golfer was having trouble getting down to par, which was evened, however, as the afternoon wore on with 68's by Willie Goggin, of San Francisco, runner-up to Sarazen in the P. G. A. of 1933, and Ray Mangrum, Los Angeles pro.

Picard today found himself in the same spot as the pace horse in a race. One slip of stride and any one of a dozen pursuers, close on his flanks, may streak past.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

PLAYING HIS LUCK

SOME PLAYERS make most astonishing scores by "playing their luck," when the cards are running well for them. Among the holdouts of such players is Mr. Kurt Wandel. I may add that he is also one of the most delightful partners, but a very dangerous opponent when his luck is running right for him. In the last two duplicate games where both of us were playing he was the only player to bid two aces on question. It happened that both of these bids were made at my table, costing me two bottom scores, as he fulfilled both of his dangerous contracts. Below is given a sample of his infernal luck, although I happened to be his partner in this case.

Bidding went: South, 1-Diamond; North (Wandel), 3-Clubs, opening a slam; East, 3-Spades; South, 4-Diamonds, my partner, no bidding; North, 6-Clubs; with the A-K-J of hearts plus 3 clubs I felt obliged to bid 7-Clubs, even if we were vulnerable, but nobody doubted.

The opening lead was the K of spades. Partner's Ace won. He led his K of trumps. East showed out by discarding his lowest spade, North led a diamond. East covered the 8 with his 9. Dummy's K won the trick.

A trump was led through West. The 7 picked up the 8. Declarer's last diamond was led. East covered with the 7. A finesse of dummy's last trump was led through West's Q-10, up to declarer's A-J, and the last two opposing trumps were picked up, leaving North with 2 long trumps. I noted how well my partner was playing the hands, thus far he had not touched a wrong card.

Partner led a heart. Dummy's K was played, winning our eighth trick. On dummy's good Ace of diamonds North discarded his last spade. Dummy's 4 of diamonds was led and ruffed, pulling down East's last diamond, and leaving one long card of that suit in dummy. North led another heart. Dummy's Ace won the trick. On a lead of dummy's last diamond my partner discarded his last heart, giving our side its twelfth straight trick. Dummy's J of hearts was led. West's Q covered (a finesse of the J would have defeated us, but my partner had smelt that when he refused to take a heart finesse). North ruffed West's Q of hearts, fulfilling his grand slam contract without difficulty, but Wandel's luck had to pull us through.

SHE FELT MARVELOUS WHEN HABITS BECAME REGULAR

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Relieved Her Constipation*

Read this splendid letter: "I tried everything, with little or no results. I felt miserable, was 20 but looked much older, and my skin was continually breaking out.

"I decided to try ALL-BRAN, three meals a day for about a week. Elimination became regular; I felt marvelous and looked better. Even my outlook on life was changed."

Mrs. Armand Hamel, Pawling, N. Y.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to aid elimination. It also furnishes vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle — and safe for normal individuals. More effective than "bulk" in leafy vegetables, as it does not break down within the body.

Isn't this natural food pleasanter than patent medicines? Just eat two tablespoons daily. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved, see your doctor.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Much more effective than part-bran products. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

LITTLE DANGER OF DUST STORM STARTING IN OHIO

FIVE PROJECTS CONSIDERED TO BLOCK EROSION

Scioto-Sandusky Project Included in Report of Ramsower at University

COLUMBUS, April 5—Dangers of erosion of farm lands in Ohio will never reach the "dust storm stage," H. C. Ramsower, head of the agricultural extension department of Ohio State university, assured farmers today, unless rain ceases to fall over this area.

Ramsower pointed to five major programs designed to halt erosion, predicting that damage to Ohio lands from the effects of weather elements will be practically halted in a few years.

Includes Scioto
The Muskingum valley conservancy program, Scioto-Sandusky project, federal reforestation project in southeastern Ohio, state program to halt erosion along Lake Erie's shoreline and the university's service to individual farmers are all designed to conserve the topsoil, store up water and generally improve the condition of Ohio lands, Ramsower declared.

"Although agriculturists have realized the seriousness of the erosion threat for years and have endeavored to take steps to curb the damage to land, this year has brought the most far-reaching results," he remarked.

The Muskingum conservancy project already under way, will store up huge reservoirs of water. There are several reforestation projects planned in the region which will help hold the moisture in the soil and preserve the topsoil.

Sponsors of the Scioto-Sandusky conservancy project are seeking federal funds to carry on a similar program in 17 central Ohio counties from Lake Erie to the Ohio river.

The erosion-ravaged lands in southeastern Ohio are to be reconditioned by planting of thousands of trees under a federal program.

eral assembly will empower the public works department to push erosion projects along the Lake Erie shoreline in Ohio to save lands that are being damaged and washed away.

The agricultural extension department at the university is carrying the erosion battle to individual farmers. Through county agents and extension workers, farmers are being urged to build small dams on their farms to store up water. Trees have been furnished by the state forestry service to enable farmers to reclaim lands damaged by erosion, Ramsower pointed out.

"Ohio does not intend to wait until the damage assumes gigantic proportions. We are taking measures to eliminate erosion, as far as possible, in this region," he asserted.

CANCER CURE PERCENTAGE CLIMB SEEN

Specialist States Finding In Explaining Treatments For Disease

By International News Service
KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 5—Clinical research has advanced so far in its work with cancer that afflicted persons need no longer become resigned to the belief that they are incurable.

Most cases of cancer now are curable by surgery and clinical observations have established some facts contributory to a science of cancer prevention, it was disclosed by Dr. Waltman Walters, assistant professor of surgery at the Mayo foundation, Rochester, Minn., in addressing surgeons here.

Dr. Walters is one of the nation's most distinguished young surgeons, a specialist in the surgery of cancer.

The two greatest obstacles in a scientific treatment of cancer is widespread quackery and the lack of public information on preventive methods, he indicated. The cause of cancer is still unknown, but researchers now know certain races and families are more susceptible to cancer than others, and some possess cancer resistance. The white race is subject to cancer more than any other race.

Dr. Walters explained: "Cancer is curable when the lesion is localized. Both the X-ray and radium treatments have proved a great aid to surgery in the treatment of cases where surgery was impossible. Cures have resulted in such cases.

"The word cancer comes from the Latin word meaning crab, and the disease has been well named as the cancer resembles a crab with its claws extended.

"The skin cancer is noticeable as it becomes a nodular tumor. In many cases the skin will break down and an ulcerous condition will develop. Any lump of the skin that resists treatment should be regarded with anxiety by the patient and a doctor should be consulted.

"An internal cancer develops internal disorders. When any organic function becomes disturbed, an examination for cancer should be made. The diagnosis of cancer is conclusive. Today the scientific visibility of the internal organs makes cancerous examinations almost perfect."

Dr. Walters said that a third, possibly half, of all surgical cases today are in the field of cancer. He said that in more than half the cases the effected organs could be removed.

Beautiful Spy, Caught in Snake Dancer Disguise, Indifferent to Her Fate

By International News Service
CASABLANCA, Morocco, April 5—"Let them shoot me, I've played and lost. I shall have lived amusingly, at least."

So exclaimed Irene von Zivers, young and attractive brunette in which she is awaiting trial on charges of espionage and helping soldiers desert from the Foreign Legion. She is indifferent about her fate and refuses legal aid.

Described by French Secret Service agents as "one of the most remarkable woman spies since Mata Hari," Irene, who was well known on the Paris stage as Irene de Versi, is reported to have acted as a spy in nearly every country in Europe.

A cultured and well educated woman, she proved a successful and unsuspected spy until she opened what was almost an agency for desertion.

Speaking five languages and attractive, Irene was a prime favorite with the Foreign Legion officers who came to the cabaret she opened at Taza and where she danced with two enormous snakes wrapped about her. When rats gnawed holes in the cage and the snakes escaped the Foreign Legion searched for and found them.

Born in Riga, her spying career led her all over Europe, it is recounted, but it was not until counter-espionage agents in Morocco noticed that soldiers deserted the Legion coincident with her visit to a town that she was suspected, placed under close surveillance and later arrested.

Cool and unworried, Irene von Zivers refused to admit or deny her guilt. "I'm not interested in what you may find out about me," she told police investigating her past.

She will be tried as soon as the investigation is ended.

"Crisco was a life saver when I was curing a stomach trouble," says Mrs. Drake. (CRISCO is the quick-digesting fat)

MRS. DRAKE'S OWN STORY IN PICTURES

IN ENGLAND, AS A GIRL—
MOTHER, why do you use CRISCO in pastry?
CRISCO is better for your health, Nora. It is a pure vegetable fat.

MARRIED, 13 YEARS LATER
You can't eat pastry, you can't eat fried foods—honestly, Nora, I'm worried—
I'm going to try CRISCO for everything—I remember Mother said it was digestible.
Nora, it's jolly to have you feel so much better—
Oh, I'm still careful of my diet, and I'm cooking all my food with CRISCO. It's been a life saver.

Mrs. Cecil Drake was a young English girl, when she first heard about Crisco. "Mother taught me how to cook with Crisco 15 years ago, and told me then that she used Crisco because it was a pure vegetable fat," she says.

Now Mrs. Drake lives in Brooklyn and is the mother of Jack, 9 years old. About 2 years ago, she says, she had a long spell of stomach trouble, which she cured "by careful dieting and cooking entirely with Crisco." "Crisco was a life saver then," she adds, "and you may be sure that I continue now to use Crisco constantly. It is very digestible."

A MAN'S STEAK PIE

hearty eating, but the Crisco pastry is digestible!

9 pounds chuck steak
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons cold water

1 cup cooked carrots, cubed
2 cups cooked potatoes, cubed
1 cup cooked celery, cut in pieces
6 cooked medium-sized onions
2 tablespoons Crisco

Wipe meat clean. Cut in 1 inch cubes. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover meat with boiling water and simmer 1 hour or until tender. Put the meat in a baking dish. Thicken the stock with the flour mixed to a paste with the water. Add carrots, potatoes, celery and onions. Pour the meat gravy over it and dot with pure digestible Crisco. Add more seasoning if necessary. Cover top with Digestible Crisco Pastry (see recipe given below). Be sure to slash top. Bake in hot oven (350°F.) 10 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate (325°F.). Bake 20 to 25 minutes.

DIGESTIBLE CRISCO PASTRY

1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup Crisco
4 to 6 tablespoons cold water

Sift flour and salt. Cut in Crisco (the digestible vegetable fat) until coarsely flaked throughout. Add only enough water to bind mixture together. Roll out on lightly floured board.

ELEANOR'S CARROT PUDDING

good as plum pudding, made with digestible Crisco

1 1/2 cup Crisco
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 egg
1 cup grated raw carrots
1/2 cup seedless raisins
2 teaspoons thinly cut lemon peel

1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon soda
1 tablespoon water
1 teaspoon baking powder

1/2 teaspoon nutmeg

Blend fluffy digestible Crisco with sugar and egg. Beat lightly. Add grated carrots, raisins, curants and lemon peel. Add the sifted flour, baking powder, salt and spices. Mix thoroughly. Then add the soda, dissolved in water. You can cook this pudding in two ways: (1) pour the mixture into Criscoed custard cups, cover with waxed paper, steam for one hour—then bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for 10 minutes. (2) pour mixture into a tube mold or a pudding dish that is rubbed with Crisco and bake in a moderate oven (325°F.) for 1 hour. Serve hot with pudding sauce. Serves 8.

KEEPING OUT OF WAR

SENATOR Borah does not believe there is going to be a war, but if it comes he is sure the United States can keep out of it. Others show they are not so sanguine by vociferating that we should keep out of any war that may come.

These are reflections of public opinion in this country, but they are easier to make than to tell how it can be done. Proposals of one sort and another to keep the United States from becoming involved are being made. Strong reliance is being put upon schemes for taking the profit out of war. Among other things, it is variously suggested that everybody should be drafted at army pay, that American loans to belligerents should be banned, that American travelers in war zones should be denied government protection and made to travel at their own risk and that all commerce with the belligerents should be prohibited.

These different proposals are urged with fervency on the ground that drastic legislative action should be taken in advance of war, before sympathy with one belligerent or another is aroused or some act is committed which might stir passions.

The history of war shows that there is always a struggle between the belligerent and neutrals, with great danger that the struggle may of itself involve the neutral in war. Nations are extremely touchy about their rights when they are fighting for their lives or when these rights affect their pockets.

It would be foolish to set up restrictions that could not withstand wartime pressure and that could no more be enforced than other prohibitions with which this country has experimented unhappily. Wartime pressure is tremendous. If war were to come to Europe tomorrow, there are many who would see in it an easy way out of the depression. Visions of factories humming, railroads running to capacity, shipping stimulated, employment for everybody would dance before the eyes of industries struggling to keep out of the red; they would dazzle idle capital and the unemployed. The very fact that the times are difficult would make the impulse to get what we could out of it a dominant passion. Politicians would have shown lately to keep from folding up.

The government will do what the people demand. It can't keep us out of war; we've got to keep ourselves out of it.

A DELAYED TRIBUTE

IT is probable that General Adolphus W. Greely, ninety-one years old and close to the end of life's journey, is indifferent to honors. He has lived long enough to know that they are not of the first importance, especially when the threshold of the valley of the shadows has been reached. The principal significance of the reward to him at this late date of the Congressional Medal of Honor is its support of the theory that, given time enough, republics eventually get around to the task of recognizing distinguished services.

General Greely is eminently deserving of the belated tribute finally received. He was the first enlisted man of the Civil war, in which he was three times wounded, to reach the grade of general in the regular army. He was a brave and a brilliant soldier. But it is principally as an Arctic explorer that he is remembered. As the leader of the Franklin Bay Expedition, which lost nineteen of its members through cold and starvation, he was the hero of an epic drama and gained imperishable fame.

Even after the last morsel of food had been consumed and one after another of the dead had been laid in the snow and the end seemed but a few days off, the scientific observations which had been the purpose of the expedition were continued. In fact, they continued until forty hours before the rescuers came and found Greely and the few survivors virtually at the portals of death.

Fifty years have passed since then and now the highest honor within the power of the United States government to award has been given General Greely. It has been bestowed upon none more deserving.

BACK TO THE FARM

(Cleveland News)

The trek to the cities and the back-to-the-farm movement usually take place along pretty well established lines, economic circumstance being the guide.

Consequently government "sub-sistence" projects, involving elaborate plans for making farmers out of urban masses, hasn't been eminently successful to date.

There is, however, a back-to-the-farm movement on in the 10 northern Ohio counties whose populations have just been checked by census officials. It has every appearance of being a healthy and normal one.

It is found that a large number of those who went to the cities to find work have returned to the country. Among them are many unemployed.

At any rate, in the 10 Ohio counties 90 per cent of the farms are being used; there are 3,244 idle. Ten thousand more farms are under cultivation than in 1930. In Cuyahoga, there are 2,297 active farms as compared with 1,299 five years ago.

The back-to-the-farm urge will take care of itself, strike a balance, economic conditions being favorable. It needs no help from the brain-trusters.

What Treatment Is Best For Arthritis Sufferer?

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A WOMAN approached me breathless as I stepped from the elevator the other day, and spoke somewhat as follows:

"Are you Dr. Clendening? You are. Well, for heaven's sake, please tell me the name of a doctor who will treat my arthritis. I've been to goodness knows how many of them and they all look at me in a blank way. Not one has been interested enough even to examine my painful joints. I don't expect to be cured, but I want some sympathy and relief."

There is a great deal of sound philosophy in what she said.

An Average Reasoning

From the average doctor's standpoint, the idea of chronic arthritis is about like this: "Chronic arthritis—there it is. It doesn't take any skill to make the diagnosis. The patient usually does that for you. As to the exact kind of arthritis it is, even the experts quarrel about the classification. Far as treatment is concerned, the disease runs a certain course and you can't do much about it. Most of the treatment is carried out by somebody else, the masseur or the physiotherapist—and he gets all the credit. Even if I go to work on the case, the patient probably will get tired of me and go to somebody else. What's the use?"

It is too bad that such a skeptical attitude should be held, but it must be admitted that the treatment of chronic arthritis demands a great deal of care, of attention to minutiae and of patience on the part both of physician and patient.

As a contrast to the pessimism expressed above, there is the case I heard described by a physician interested in the care of these patients. He told of a patient who had taken many fruitless treatments before she came to him. She was in good financial circumstances, which makes some difference, but not as much in this disease as in many others; the only reason it need be emphasized is because it must be plain that she had, especially, time and also resources to attend to every aspect of the situation.

A Constitutional Disease

Now, arthritis is the new society name for the old disease of rheumatism. And the source of the word "rheumatism" is the Greek word "reuma" which means "to flow." It flows all through the body, such must be our conception of chronic rheumatism or chronic arthritis. In other words, it is a constitutional disease and in its treatment all parts of the body must be considered.

That, at least, was the conception this physician had of his patient's case. He found that throughout the whole system there were changes. She had some anemia. There were digestive troubles—in the stomach, the gallbladder, and the large intestine. The general rate of nutritional exchange—metabolism—was low. Most of her localized points of infection had been removed but something along this line still remained to be done. And she was in pain. And she was fatigued.

So he treated her along all these lines. And to do so, he put her to bed.

And in that last sentence there is a whole sermon.

Sheriff James Flower

Declaring nothing would stop a strike of Akron rubber workers except an agreement with the rubber companies, Coleman C. Claherty, left, national president of the United Rubber Workers, clashed with Sheriff James Flower, right, of Summit county, when he demanded a force of 1,000 special deputies be mobilized. Claherty said he would ask Gov. Martin L. Davey to send troops to take over the situation from local authorities. Meanwhile employees of big rubber plants voted of the strike question.

WHAT C. C. C. BOYS HAVE BEEN DOING WITH THEIR TIME WHILE IN SERVICE

BOSTON, April 5—What those busy "nephews" of Uncle Sam—the boys of the Civilian Conservation Corps—have been doing with their time in the last 18 months is indicated by a report to State Conservation Commissioner Samuel A. York.

Numbered among the CCC projects carried to completion in the Bay State were the construction of 12 log cabins, 90 tenting sites, 16 bathing beaches, 298 fireplaces, 66 picnic groves, and 50 park areas. In order to make the interior of the large forests more accessible to the public, a total of 202 miles of road was built.

Also constructed were 288 water holes and ponds, many of which are large enough for fishing or boating, being at the same time an aid in the reduction of the woodland fire hazard. Silvicultural work has been done on 8,856 acres while the fight against the gypsy moth pest has taken CCC members over 105,644 acres of forested land. More than 100 miles of foot trails have been built for the enjoyment of those who love to roam in the woods.

Construction of 131 foot bridges, 55 vehicle bridges, 36 miles of fire lines, three lookout towers, three miles of stream improvements and opening up of 174 vistas to give the public better views of Nature were also numbered in CCC accomplishments. A total of 22,000 cords of wood has been cut for use as fuel at the various CCC camps and 112 miles of roadside cleaned.

In line with announcement of the development of the forests, Commissioner York announced the "Massachusetts Plan" which calls for the creation of 26 state reservations located in such a way that no center of population will be farther than 20 miles from a State forest park.

Simmes Cut Lead While Culbertson is Squelched

NEW YORK, April 5—Despite five rabbits' feet in the camp of a friend of the Culbertsons, Ely Culbertson and his wife, P. Hal Sims and Mrs. Sims whittled 2280 points from the Culbertson lead in their contract bridge "battle of the century."

Past the half-way mark in the 150-rubber contest, the Culbertsons went into their eighty-first rubber today only 7180 points to the good. They had at one time reached a high of 12,220 points to front.

RAILROAD WRITES HISTORY OF LINE

Data is now being collected by a member of the staff of the Norfolk and Western magazine for use in writing a complete history of the Norfolk and Western Railway and its predecessor lines, according to a letter sent to libraries along the railroad requesting information and references.

The book, which will be the first complete history of the railway, will carry the story of the construction and operation of the various lines which made up the system, beginning with the first unit, the City Point Railroad, a ten-mile line between City Point (now Hopewell) and Petersburg, Va., built between 1837 and 1839. Profusely illustrated, it will also include human interest and biographical sketches of the president of the early roads.

A sketch of the proposed history and what the author expects to include in the book, will be carried in the April issue of the Norfolk and Western Magazine. The article will ask the aid of employees of the railroad and others in securing information and pictures of a number of presidents of the earlier lines and other data that may be used in writing the book. The text of the publication will be carefully authenticated.

ADD NEW ROADS TO OHIO SYSTEM

COLUMBUS, April 5—More than 400 community centers not now served by state roads will be located on the state highway system as a result of the passage by the Ohio Senate of the Richards Bill which provides for the addition of 5000 miles of local roads to the state highway system, according to the Ohio Good Roads Federation, which has for several years urged that state roads should be extended to all centers of population.

The bill which was sponsored by Representative John Richards of Carrollton, has passed the House by vote of 89 to 10 and was approved in the Senate by vote of 21 to 6. It will give to each county not less than 40 miles and not more than 70 miles of additional state roads, and will be a definite relief to every county by transferring the expense of improvement and maintenance of this mileage to the state highway department, the author of the bill states.

MUST LOVE HER

As an old lady was walking along a street she was amazed to see a young man rush out of a house, charge to the edge of the pavement, jump up into the air and fall with a crash in the gutter.

"Are you badly hurt?" she asked, helping the young man up.

"No nothing serious; only bruises," was the answer.

"What on earth were you doing?"

"Well, you see," replied the young man, "my girl's just promised to marry me and I was so happy that I clean forgot I hadn't come on my bicycle."
